BRITAIN IS ETHIOPIAN DEFENCE

There's plenty of theorizing over the difficulties Italy will encounter in tackling Ethiopia. But prominent military men know that Il Duce will have little more trouble than the French and British had in defeating the North American Indians.

Ethiopia is by no means a military power. The nation is a parcel of tribes, most of whom have a different language. They fight as mobs and their weapons are antiquated.

Ethiopia has less chance of beating Italy than Canada has of defeating the United States in a war—which is nil.

The Italians are going into this war in a businesslike way. It is a crack army, drilled to the nth degree, which is being sent to Ethiopia, and behind it is all the products of modern day science.

Ethiopia will certainly succumb unless Great Britain and France prevent it. Both are vitally interested in Africa, particularly the British. With Italy in possession of Ethiopia British interests and prestige in Egypt and all Africa would suffer. The source of the Blue Nile, so vital to Egypt, is in Ethiopia.

A LITTLE CHEER

Are times getting better?

A large number of competent observers believe so.

There is a strong under-current of optimism in large trade centers in the North American continent. There is an assuring feeling of brighter times ahead.

Now this is not intended as ordinary cheer-up chatter, characteristic of certain periods during the depression. It is calculated to be a careful summing-up of sentiment.

The United States is quite definitely optimistic. That country is the best barometer of conditions on the North American continent. If conditions improve there, an upswing in Canada is almost certain.

Europe looks to the United States to lead the world back into prosperous times. And Europe is quite hopeful these days, too, save for fear of war.

The depression has consisted of a buying strike due to continually lowering prices and lack of confidence. The unsatisfied wants of the people of the world have multiplied. If some methods are devised to enable these pent-up wants to be supplied the result will be a vast upturn in trade.

Good times will return again just as surely as one season follows another. The wounds of the depression will, in time, be forgotten and hope will renew itself in the human breast.

CANADA AS A HOG RAISING COUNTRY

Canada prefers to be known as a wheat-raising country rather than a producer of hogs on a large scale. There is an element of might and power and prestige in raising wheat on an enormous scale. Raising hogs seems to be a humble and commonplace occupation in comparison with growing wheat.

Yet the humble porker has proven a good friend to many farmers in this district, in this province and in this Dominion during the past few years. Pork production has proven to be a profitable business for the farmer.

There is an election on and this newspaper is independent in politics but even at that it is only right and just to say that Premier R. B. Bennett is largely responsible for the popularity of the pigs in farm circles nowadays. "Bennett of Calgary," as he prefers to be called, got a quota of 250 million pounds of bacon in the British market. This increased pork prices by at least a nickel a pound in Alberta.

Canadian farmers market 6,000,000 hogs a year averaging in weight 200 pounds apiece. An increase of five cents a pound means a better price by $10 a pig or an increase in value of Canada's pig marketings of $60,000,000 a year. Of this amount British consumers pay about $15,000,000 and Canadian consumers $45,000,000. The housewife pays more for the pork she buys, it is true, but the farmers who raise pigs get at least a decent price for their efforts.

If the British outlet for Canadian pig products is maintained it will be a fine thing for pig raisers in this country. Alberta is one of the leading pork producing provinces. She is sure to advance in this respect if the market in Britain can be retained.

THE LEAGUE AND "SANCTIONS"

The word "sanctions" has been used freely at the recent meetings of the League of Nations in discussing the Italo-Ethiopian trouble. The English language defines the word to mean "giving countenance to," or "rendering valid by assent."

The word "sanctions," however, has a different meaning in the parlance of the League documents where French usage has been followed. There it implies penalties. "Sanctions" as means of exerting pressure are provided for in several articles of the covenant which seeks to assure joint action of League members against those who resort to war.

In Article X League members not only agree to preserve the territorial integrity of all members against aggressors but provide that in case of external aggression "The Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

Article XVI stipulates that if any member of the League resorts to war in disregard of its covenants it shall be deemed to have aided an act of war against all other members of the League. The penalty is severance of all trade or financial relations; the prohibition of all intercourse between the nations in the League and the covenant breaking state; and the breaking off of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse. It is then the duty of the Council in such case to recommend what military, naval or air forces the League members shall contribute to the armed forces to be used to protect the covenant.

This explanation shows the power of the sanctions and the menace to a belligerent country if these are invoked.

The weakness which time has shown to be present in the League structure is the reluctance of the signatory nations to go to war because a member nation breaks the covenant.

AN HISTORICAL EPISODE

Verevndrye, the indomitable Frenchman, who first saw the Rocky Mountains as he traversed Western Canada, is one of the most picturesque of all Canadian explorers.

The ambition of Verevndrye was to find the "western sea" (the Pacific Ocean) and this inspired his travels across Canada's prairies. He is supposed to have followed the Red Deer westward from where it joins the South Saskatchewan (at Empress) and left the stream where it turns north in the vicinity of Hutton. This journey was continued until the foothills of the "Shining Mountains" (the Rockies) were reached.

Maybe the mountainous obstacle was too much for the intrepid adventurer. Anyway he turned back and never reached the coast, in spite of the birch bark map showing the route thither, which an Indian chieftain had given him; the chief who "Stood by Verevndrye and, dark eyes agleam, Spoke of the sea I have not seen but I have travelled far. A river flows to where the sun leans down To touch the forehead of the western star."

PRAYER

God, though this life is but a wraith,
Although we know not what we use,
Although we grope with little faith
Give me the heart to fight—and lose.

Ever insurgent let me be
Make me more daring than devout;
From slack contentment set me free
And fill me with a buoyant doubt.

Open my ears to music; let Me thrill with Spring's first lute and drums
But never let me dare forget
The bitter ballads of the slums.

From compromise and things half done,
Keep me with stern and stubborn pride,
And when, at last, the fight is won
God, keep me still unsatisfied!

Ten Minutes

with the Scotch Philosopher

Judging by the comments of our neighbors who have been threatened out, one is much compelled to admit that Marquis is the least worst for the semi-arid region in which we live. It withstands the dry spells in a harder manner, judges and shall lose less than the other varieties, and has the great merit of filling in the stock, when cut on the green side. In wet years, of course, it is more liable to be damaged by frost but since wet seasons seem to be getting rather far apart, arius is, without doubt, the best friend of the prairie farmer.

Watching Old Tommy tear his only shirt as he came through the fence made us not only grieve at his expense, but also reminded us that the barbed wire fence by the wayside marks our progress through life.

When first erected in the days of long ago, often in a frolicsome mood, we'd place a hand on a post and could figure out these days we expect to hit in a hole and stay there.

A young Pole, working on a threshing outfit a few miles away, for the first time in his life, saw a skunk near the barn and impaled it on a fork. Proud of his trophy, he threw it on his back and proceeded to the pool car in this manner. The rest of the crew were enjoying a smoke and supper when the lad appeared.

One of the horses greeted his appearance and some of the crew went over to have up the headless animal they had but wisely put it aside. Not so, however, one lady looked near the door. He slammed the door and hard and Pole and skunk rolled down the stairs.

At last, the poor bloke is an outcast. He sleeps any old place he can, even the bunk car which, despite several attempts, still has the odor of skunk but has not been taken that makes fellows with the original aboard the ark by Noah.

Now that the Winnipeg Indian has finally told us that his people would take the country back in a hot war, what are we going to do about it? Give it up to the hoppers, explorers and coyotes, or let it blow away?

By golly, it's a puzzle!

For nearly a week our new dog "Mittie" has been in a very positive mood. The misnomer is certain she is inhuman for some kids she played with in the city, but we've got a bunch of kids joining of the noble little bestow on ye editor's liver snatcher.

What do you think, farmers? By the way, Jim, you want to come up and see Mittie's pedigree.

It goes right back to the time when your ancestors were hunting rabbits in stone hatchets on the moors of Scotland.

Good by all.

Ed. Note: Mittie, Annabelle completely ignores you.

"How's that?" asked the teacher. "All the others have written at least two sheets, while you did nothing."

"Well," replied Henry, "that's what I'd do if I were a millionaire."

WAS TOO LONG DELAYED

A Just Price on what is now an established fact, the only thing we find wrong with it is that it has been as long delayed. Why could not this have been done before farmers, and the country as a whole became so deeply involved in debt? If it is right that it can be done now, it is right that it be done three years ago. Rovers Go A'Roving

Here are five Canadian Rover Scouts on board the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of York, in which they sailed from Montreal to attend the World Rover Moot being held this year in Sweden. Eastern and Western Canada are represented by the five, who, left to right, are: L. P. Dominick, of Peterboro, Ont.; Allan Hiron, of St. Paul, Alta.; A. B. Patterson, son scout, of Oshawa, Ont.; Kingston Webber, of Elmiston, and A. C. Kessler, of Saint John, N. B. The Canadian Rovers will form part of a British contingent of 1,500 attending the Rover Moot, or nearly half the entire number expected to attend. They will be in camp for six days at the Moot headquarters on Insaroe Island, not far from Stockholm. Elaborate preparations have been made by the Swedish Rovers, hosts of the gathering, who are headed by Prince Gustaf Adolf, eldest son of the Crown Prince of Sweden. The camp will have a fire brigade, telephone system, post-office, hospital and will publish a daily newspaper in the four official languages of the Moot, English, French, German and Swedish.

The Swedish Moot will be the second World Rover Moot. The first was held in Switzerland in 1921. Two of the five Rovers in the above picture, A. C. Kessler and Allan Hiron, attended the 1931 Moot.

ASSISTANCE TO EXHIBITORS

The Alberta government will once again assist seed grain exhibitors at the Toronto Royal Fair and Chicago International this fall. For the royal fair, entry fee and shipping costs to Toronto will be paid on approved exhibits in classes for registered or certified seed, seed on boys' and girls' club exhibits. Return shipping costs will not be paid. Entry fees must be paid first by the exhibitors and will be refunded on presentation of receipts. No assistance will be given in the regular open classes.

At Chicago International hay and grain show, where Alberta has made such an outstanding record in seed strains for the past 15 years, the government will pay the shipping costs on approved exhibits. Prize money in the regular grain sections at Chicago won by Alberta exhibitors will be duplicated by the provincial government. In the case of one or more first prizes or championships being won, a special bonus of $50 will be awarded, which will be increased to $100 in the case of championships in wheat, oats or barley. The provincial field crops branch will as far as possible arrange the arrangements for the exhibits.

The exhibits of seed grain are to be prepared in time to be forwarded to Chicago by freight. On those going by express, half the cost only will be borne by the government.

WHY WORRY ABOUT OIL?
But we should worry about oil. The progress of science and mechanics indicate that in the near future cars will be electrically driven with batteries that will hold a sufficient charge to run the average motorist about six months, and the recharge on only the nominal sum of two dollars and a half. Sounds funny, doesn't it? But so did motion pictures in 1926 and radio in 1929. The Clarence Local Press.

Use of the Uniform
Today the uniform is used only in acts of arms and other duties. It means with the lion in the coat of the great Britain. According to custom of the time of Queen Elizabeth, the horn of a unicorn was seen in the court of the virgin queen. It is said to be worth about a quarter of a million dollars.

Chatter Column

It may or may not be a debatable point, but we play bridge. This is, however, no place to argue the point and what brought up the whole subject was a story we heard about two oldsters who had played the game as partners for years. From auction to contract. The cue was pulled on us last winter and even the fact that we had heard it before didn't lessen our enjoyment in hearing it again—even at our own expense.

Anyway, it seems that these two old chaps had been partners at bridge for a good many years and you know how it is—on this occasion one made a costly error in judgment. But don't we all? which cost them the contract and set them plenty. Before a perfect gentleman, his partner refrained from killing him with an axe. For the cards, a deep breath, and spoke on this wise: "Partner, I have long been aware of the fact that in the decade or so in which you have played what is touchingly called your partner's hand of bridge, that every day you play just a little worse than you did the day before. I don't mind that much. Being accustomed to your eccentricities, I expect it and don't object to it. But what I do object to is that you are playing to day as you should play tomorrow."

Passing hastily from one error to another, we quote the Humorous Enterprise: "An enterprising collector Alberta weekly" (that's us). In quoting Premier Aberhart on his proposed plan of action, includes this sentence in the interview: "After this information is complete, the Social Credit act will be drawn and the issuance of half monthly dividends will be given. If and when dividends on this basis begin, the province will hardly be able to hold the applicants."

Not the applicants the dividend?

This "dividend" question will be taken up next week.

A REASONABLE REQUEST

Is gratitude numbered among the human virtues?

If so there should be some appreciation for the Wheat Pools in Western Canada today.

No organization has so courageously faced the strongest kind of opposition.

And all for the benefit of the grain growers of the west.

No organization has so courageously faced danger and even the threat of extinction.

In order that the grain growers might not be sacrificed to greed and the arrogance of wealth and power.

Continuous criticism has been the lot of this farmer organization through the bitter years.

In which it fought for the grain farmers.

Surely it is not asking too much to suggest that the grain farmers

Should give their patronage to Alberta Pool Elevators?

It is through deliveries of grain that this organization is kept strong and virile.

Won't you do your part? Every wagon load counts.

Miners' Strike Threatened

British Miners are Dissatisfied With Wages And Working Conditions

A national miners' strike will be declared in Great Britain if demands for higher wages and better working conditions are not met, says the General Secretary of the Miners' Federation, declared in a manifesto in London. The manifesto asked the public to help the miners to avoid a crisis.

"The hour has struck," it said. "After years of patient submission to conditions fit for slaves, the miners have decided to enforce their demands for the payment of reasonable wages. Their wages are a shame for a civilized community."

Rate Of The Stowaway

Not As Severe Now As In The Olden Days

The fate of a stowaway in the "good old days" was summary and severe. He could have little doubt as to what he would get—an introduction to the rope-end, and a voyage of slavery in working his passage.

Today the stowaway meets with a far more prosaic reception. Repeatedly such people are discovered before the ship leaves port and handed over to the authorities on shore. Nevertheless, some there are who manage to elude observation until the vessel they have chosen is well at sea.

It is practically impossible to land undetected at the ports of any civilized country, even could stowaways remain concealed for a whole voyage. Today the life of a stowaway is still fraught with danger. Examples have occurred of men trapped like rats by the shifting of cargo, or suffocated through lack of ventilation.

The Great Eastern, that wonder ship of the reign of Queen Victoria, carried a grim secret below the waterline all the days of her seafaring life. From her first voyage to her last she carried an involuntary stowaway—the body of a dead man, but the fact was never discovered until she reached the shipbreaker's yard. Then the skeleton was found in her hold, and proved to be that of a workman who had been engaged in her construction.

A curious stowaway story is told by Captain John Attwood, who has just retired after nearly 47 years at sea. His last command was the Union-Castle liner Balmuccia.

When he was second officer of the Goth in 1901 he found an escaped Boer prisoner who was six feet three inches tall, hiding in a case designed as containing "curios," and measuring less than five feet in length.

This interesting curio was designated to an eminent officer of the Buffs (East Kent Regiment), and the box is still to be seen in the museum on the island of St. Helena.

During the last war vigilance at all ports was great, for as far as Britain was concerned the sea provided the only route for escaping prisoners. Nevertheless, one or two enterprising Germans managed to get away, and a particular individual for whose recapture Lord Kitchener had been raised by a national newspaper sent a postcard to that organ of public opinion announcing his safe arrival in Denmark.

Found Fortune In Pillow

Chinese Spent Last Coin For Purchase That Brought Wealth

A poor Chinese who bought a little red satin pillow at the last coin because he thought his wife would like it—now finds his purchase has brought him a fortune. The lucky man, Chen Ting-ogh, had borrowed a dollar (15.50) from his brother-in-law when he met a destitute Russian who offered him the pillow. He knew his wife would be pleased with his marvelous embroidery and paid over his last dollar. But when he reached home he was afraid to tell her how he had "wasted" the borrowed dollar. So he lay down with his head on the pillow to think matters over.

The pillow was so uncomfortable that Chen became irritated and began to tear off its covering. Embroidery of even greater beauty was revealed and he went on tearing off successive coverings till he came to a ball of cotton wool. It contained 49 pearls of great beauty and size. Now Chen is richer by £3,867—the sum he obtained for the pearls. The pillow is said to have been lost by the Emperor Dowager Tse Hsi during the boxer rising, when she fled from Peking. She subsequently offered a large reward for its return, but its whereabouts remained a mystery until Chen solved it.

Dr. Hanna Is Dead

Graduate Of Queen's University Was Well Known In West

Dr. James Edward Hanna, graduate of Queen's university, for many years one of Ottawa's leading physicians, died recently of heart disease at the age of 74. He collapsed at breakfast and failed to respond to treatment of his son, Dr. Herbert Hanna, also a Queen's graduate.

Dr. Hanna was widely known in Saskatchewan, where he developed several farms after his retirement from practice in 1911.

What Motorists Want

A million motorists were asked to state the qualities they desired in a car. The answers ran into the following order: Dependability, economy, safety, comfort, appearance, ease of control, low initial cost, smoothness and, finally, speed.

Motor Cars In Germany

Per Capita Distribution Is One To Every 75 Persons

Although Germany in the early days of the industry was an important producer of automobiles, and still produces and exports far more than Canada, it has fewer motor vehicles in use by a couple of hundred thousand than this country. According to Paul Bykes, Canadian trade commissioner in Hamburg, a survey showed 886,000 passenger and commercial motor vehicles in use throughout Germany in 1934. The one-cent price was one in a million of one to every 75 persons. In Canada it is about one to nine persons, and in the United States about one to five.

Germany would therefore appear to be a long way from the saturation point, and a wonderful market for cars is awaiting manufacturers at home or abroad. Evidently it will be for German manufacturers, and they ought to do pretty well out of it, under the trade regulations set up. In Canada we think the tariff pretty high, but Mr. Bykes summarizes the German situation as follows:

"The import duty amounts, in the case of a medium-weight car of chassis price, to from $400 to $600 (Canadian currency) per unit. Also, it has now become difficult, and at times impossible for importers or agents to obtain import permits or to complete payment for such purchases of foreign goods."

China Has Sea Monster

Creature Said To Resemble Man And Eats Human Flesh

Inhabitants of the Amoy coast, China, have been terrified by reports of a sea monster with a vast appetite and a partiality for human flesh.

The worst latest marine terror bears little resemblance to the famous sea serpents of British Columbia and Scotland. The Amoy monster is said to closely resemble a man when seen from afar although no one has been close enough to obtain an accurate description of the creature.

The monster is modestly clad in long black hair and is reported amphibious. Apparently it does not possess a long sinuous body and a candle-like head attributed to the Chinese serpents.

D. M. Sutherland, minister of national health, said. The whole subject was one of such extreme importance that it could not be rushed, the minister added.

Much preliminary work had to be done in the way of consulting the various interests involved—doctors, nurses, dentists, druggists, labor, agricultural and financial. These, said the minister, will have to be co-ordinated in order to get "preliminary action" before definite steps towards instituting the inquiry can be made.

Natives Of Trinidad Still Use Leeches As Cure

The judge of the workmen's compensation court, Port of Spain, Trinidad, was surprised to hear that natives of this British island colony still resorted to the old-time remedy of using leeches to cure an injured person by bleeding.

But H. Hudson Phillips, barrister-at-law who was arguing the case, was not surprised and told the court so.

"There is a roaring trade between Martinique, Guadeloupe and Trinidad with leeches," he said. "They are procured from the rivers of the French colonies. They are fed on charcoal and sold in the eastern market here."

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her next party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he has, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora. Table had told her to follow a truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is homeless, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all lit up, and asks Matthew if he knows why. He said, "Let's go in and see." Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support to her request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam placed a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XLV

March "came in like a lamb," and continued lamb-like for so long that Nancy hung her fur coat at the very back of her closet, and concluded that spring had come. It was on one of these rare days when Aurora, deep in an orgy of housecleaning, ordered the girl emphatically to

"clear out," that Nancy decided to test the woodland trail to the hilltop where she had gone with Matthew three months before; and reaching the summit, dropped breathless at the foot of the old pine.

She had wanted to go out to the Adam ranch that morning, but it was "library day," and Mary Taylor, who would have taken her place behind the desk, was visiting in Pueblo. There was nothing to do but stay at home, and this was the sort of weather that made one long to "go somewhere"—surely too fine a day to remain indoors. So here she was, gazing off at that marvelous picture, with Pike's Peak looking only about a mile away; and at her feet a clump of Colorado anemones like those Matt had brought her from the ranch last week. Nancy wished that Aunt Judy, who so loved flowers, were here to see them.

Suddenly it struck the girl as unbelievable that she should be two thousand miles from home, alone on a hilltop under a pine that had (as Matthew Adam pointed out), viewed things that were part of the history of her country. If only this wonderful old tree could talk! Why, it had stood here in silence and watched that Indian and his boy approach the lonely cabin where a small Colorado Columbine was rapturously enjoying her first Christmas tree! Did it tug at its sturdy roots in an effort to send forth a warning? Mused Nancy whimsically, and then said aloud:

"But I'd never have had these thoughts if Matt hadn't put them into my head, perhaps. He's a queer boy—Matt Adam—so awfully shy most of the time, and such a riot when he forgets himself. I never saw any one just like him. Mark's bright as a dollar, and one can have perfectly grand times with him; but there are days when I like his brother even more. Somehow Matt makes you want to protect him, he's so sensitive. And in that Tux the night of my—"

Nancy started, blushing as red as ever the approaching Matthew had. He smiled and apologized: "Sorry I scared you. Thought maybe you saw the truck bumping along the road down there. I caught a glimpse of an orange tank and made a guess that you'd be under it. Mother wants you for supper; and Dad has promised to try chickens if you'll come."

"Does the invitation include Cousin Columbine?" asked Nancy as the young man dropped to the ground beside her.

"Of course. You can ride back with Luke when he gets the milk case this afternoon."

"That's grand," smiled Nancy. "How did your mother know that I was crazy to go out to the ranch today?"

"She didn't. It's a farewell banquet for yours truly. I'm swapping jobs with Mark to-morrow. Uncle Tom needs some one a while longer, and Mark is fit to sit at missing so much of your society. He called Mother up this morning with a pathetic story which she felt for instantly, and proceeded to point out the fact that it was my duty to relieve him. Jack's going to drive me to Frannie Ranch to-morrow, and come home with Mark. I hope to thunder I'll be back in another week."

"I hope so too," returned Nancy sweetly; "but it's been wonderful for Jack, having this chance of stay with you people. I didn't dream your uncle would be laid up so long. But it was Uncle Tom who fixed things so Dad and Mother could marry when they did, and they'd lend him anything from their sons to the last copper. Say, Nancy, have—have you decided when you're going East?"

"I wrote Dad yesterday that I thought we ought to stay till June. There are such a lot of things we want to see. Matt; and goodness knows if we'll ever come again."

"Of course you will. What makes you say a thing like that? Why—why if I thought—"

He didn't finish the sentence; and Nancy said demurely: "It's nice of you to want us to return! And we're going to miss you Adams a whole lot. That's straight, Matt. Yet I can't help wondering if when we once get home again this—well, the whole experience, won't seem almost like a dream. If you knew how I dreaded to come! I was scared out of my senses. You've no idea what an awful coward I am."

"Was, perhaps," Matthew corrected gravely.

Nancy threw him a little smile; then her face sobered.

"I'm not so sure the past tense is correct, Matt. Sometimes I think my courage has never been tested, and wonder how I'd show up in a pinch. It was pride that made me consent to come out here—that is, mostly pride. I wanted to help Dad, of course. We all did. But I'd never have come alone, Matt. I'm no heroine."

"I beg to disagree with you, lady. Jack says you never whimpered at giving up that glorious debut."

The girl raised her head in sheer surprise.

"He did?"

Matthew nodded.

"Your kid brother thinks the world of you, Nancy. Didn't you know it?"

Nancy pondered that.

"I knew Jack was fond of me, of course; but when I hesitated about coming to Colorado he—he called me a poster ornament, and—"

Matt laughed, his eyes shining as his mother's had when Nancy first saw her.

"What's the disgrace in being ornamental so long as you're something else besides? Look at our library, Miss Aladdin! Honestly, Nancy, Dad says he doesn't know any one who's accomplished so much in a

They Come And Learn

Tourists From United States Finding Out About Canada

The Stratford Beacon-Herald says: The tourist habit is one of the best corrective elements which has made its appearance. When people come and find best here in Summer they know how limited has been their conception of this country. They will probably go home and tell other people. We can enjoy a good laugh at the expense of those who come in Summer armed and prepared for Winter, but the truth is the people from United States never knew any better. It is well they are finding out.

The Measure Of Success

In Ability To Keep On When Every One Turns Back

On every bad day we see people who have turned back, people who had pluck enough to begin things with enthusiasm, but did not have grit enough to carry them to a finish. The point at which you are tempted to turn back, the point when your grit leaves you, will measure your achievement power. Your ability to go on, to continue after everybody else has turned back, is a good measure of your possible success.

Ancient Villages Revealed

Three Distinct Sites Have Been Excavated In England

Some of the secrets of Maiden Castle, near Dorchester, Britain's best preserved pre-historic monument, recently revealed by excavations made by Dr. R. E. M. Wheeler, were described by him before the Society of Antiquaries at Burlington House, London, the other day. Three distinct sites had been excavated, he said. In the first he had found Neolithic pits filled with pottery of simple design, rebarbed pit axes and other weapons. They had also cut into the site of a Neolithic village of about 2000 B.C. For the next fifteen centuries the site was without human occupation, owing to water shortage experienced on nearly all highlands of Europe. In the second excavation they cut across a bank reinforced with a palisade of one-foot timbers and a ditch fifty feet wide and thirty feet deep. They discovered twelve or fifteen hearths at different levels in the ditch filling. "On this site we found seventy-six Iron Age pits, used for dwellings, cooking and storage," Dr. Wheeler said.

Dr. F. W. Gershaw, M.P. of Medicine Hat, was a visitor in Bassano last Saturday.

Inspector of Schools H. C. Sweet of Medicine Hat is a visitor in Bassano this week.

H. W. Ford and Austin returned to their home in Calgary last Saturday, Gordon Plak accompanying them as far as the city.

Our phone number is 19. You are cordially invited to use this number and let us know of local happenings, and the doings of yourself, friends and relatives. Thank you.

A. A. MacGregor, in writing to his friends in Bassano, says he likes the north country very well. He claims it would open our eyes to see the good crops and heavy growth of flowers and shrubs all over the countryside in the Edmonton district. In reply to your inquiry, Alex, we wish to say that the party whom you wish to congratulate and wish a bit is not the one you think it is.

IN MEMORIAM

McLEAN

In ever loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, (Katie) Catherine F. McLean, who was called away September 27, 1936.
Three long and lonesome years have passed since that day God called the one he loved away. Our memory often wanders as twilight shadows fall back to the days of happiness, days beyond recall.

And a vision comes before us, so calm, so dear, so sweet. Of her whose lips are silent, whose eyes are closed in sleep.

A loving daughter, true and kind. A beautiful memory left behind.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Brothers and Sisters.

McLEAN

In kind remembrance of Catherine McLean, who passed away Sept. 27, 1936.

"She died as she lived. Everybody's friend. Always in our thoughts." From a Friend.
